BEAUTY IN THE BATH.

MODESTY IN BATHING COSTUMES IS LARGELY CONVENTIONAL.

How the Costumes Vary at Long Branch, Ocean Grove, Asbury Park and Coney Island-At the Two Extremes, Display. The Middle Class Is Modest.

[Special Correspondence.]
NEW YORK, June 6.—There always has been and always will be certain fashionable women who delight in eccentric bathing costumes, but to any woman of taste and refinement the bathing suit that attracts the least notice is the one most desirable. At Asbury Park and Ocean Grove the costumes are a shade more decorous than many worn at Long Branch, Newport and Narragansett, while those worn at Coney Island and Rockaway are positively modest for the most part. In fact, I have noticed in this, as in many other matters, the poorer the class that frequents a place the more modest and circumspect the attire and manner of the women.

SEASONABLE HINTS. The ladies who bathe at Newport and arragansett, as well as Long Branch, feel themselves lifted above and beyond criticism, while the religious tendencies of the majority of the Ocean Grove and Asbury Park summer visitors lift them above criticism, no matter what they do, so that it devolves upon the simple, plain, honest folks to maintain the proprieties.

It is so well understood that the beneficial influence of sea bathing is so great as to make even a few baths felt as a potent health factor, that almost every woman whose circumstances lift her above actual want has her bathing costume.

In this letter are presented a few neat and genteel bathing suits, all feasible for the home dress maker. The materials generally employed are dark blue flannel or serge, though lately it has been found that Turkish toweling or linea bed ticking are preferable, as they do not hold the water so nor cling so closely to the figure. Bed ticking is really excellent, and has the advantage of being dren, though they should not be allowed to remain in the wet garments, as they chill more rapidly than in flannel. Dark blue is the commonest color, trimmed with white, black or red braid, or bands put on in fanciful fashion, according to

The very fact of the costume being for bathing ought to be the reason for quiet taste, as the wearer is sufficiently conspicuous without trying to make her self more so by startling styles in dress. The illustrations to this article show the best styles for papa and mamma, the baby and young sister—those for the parents in blue flannel, with white braid, and those for the sister and little one in maroon serge. The wrap is of gray toweling, with scarlet cords. The dark blue costume needs eight yards of flan-nel and eighteen yards of braid and fifty-eight buttons, and requires no pattern, as any lady can make so simple a garment. The wrap needs eight yards of toweling about twenty-dx inches

Though it is not absolutely necessary to wear stockings and shoes it is better to do so, as the sharp shells and pebbles may cut the feet; but in Newport and other fashionable resorts it is considered the mark of respectability to wear silk stockings and fancy shoes. Skeleton corsets are also worn by those who bathe corsets are also worn by those who bathe for display.

I saw a bathing dress made for a wealthy married lady, now in Newport, of white feit flannel, with a rich embroidery of coral in red silk intermingied with gold sea plants. There were no sleeves and the belt was one mass of gold embroidery, with here and there a bit of the red. Buckskin shoes to match and coral pink silk stockings were to be worn. The Union Pacific now has the most direct route to Kansas of any road running out of this city. A fine passenger train leaves here at 8 o' lock every morning, and runs direct to Manhattan, Kas, at which place it makes close connection with Kansas Division main line trains cast and west. The run is through the most pleasant part of Nebraska and hrough the northern part of Kansas, in a first country. Taken as a whole, the trip of human interest. A few copies of the paper. All who have expressed themselves in the hearing of any member of the Countent force have been charmed with the story. It reads more like a bit of real life than the elaborately artistic literary effusion of a professional novelist, and it is full of human interest. A few copies of the Countent with this, also coral gold bracelets. Many other daring fancies were worked out for bathing dresses for those whose wealth enables them to defy public opinion, but I have no patience to write of them, nor do my readers care to hear of them, I am sure.

As soon as the weather begins to tighten a As soon as the weather begins to tighten a warm grip on humanity, humanity is apt to lose its grip on appetite, or, at least on its fancy for such dishes as were wont to amuse the palate in cooler seasons. Table Talk apprehends this condition of affairs, and its profession is to apply the remedy. The peculiarly interesting manner in which it does this readers may learn by getting a copy of the June number, wherein they will plainly see with what ingenuity Mrs. Rorer patches up the appetite for its summer work.

In Cushman park the people of Lincoln have a beautiful resort, the like of which few western cities can boast, and they ought to make the most of it. The management are making every effort to provide attractions for visitors and constantly have various enter-tainments under way. The open air concerts are a delightful novelty, particularly as such artists as Mrs. Weber, Nat Brigham and the military band furnish the music. The music hall is receiving devoted attention, and is the scene of dancing parties every few nights. Brown is running the cafe, which is a guarantee of its excellence. His fifty-cent dinuer is a drawing card. The management is making improvements from time to time and adding improvements from time to time and adding new features. Parties contemplating picnics should see Manager Andrus and arrange for the use of the park, which will be given on liberal terms. The thing now is to drive to Cushman on Sunday, and hundreds are doing the correct thing. A grand concert will be given at the park tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. Weber, Mrs. Kilroy, the Military band and the Germania chorus, forty strong.
The train will leave at 2:30 and return at 8.
